From the noble Tempranillo and its many clones to the bright and crisp Godello, Spanish winemakers are using time-honored techniques and cutting-edge innovation to produce a wealth of new and exciting wines from their native grape varieties. Join Steve Olson for a look at these excellent developments in Spanish winemaking, and a coast-to-coast tasting of Spain's native grapes. Sample refreshing Albariños from Green Spain, Sherry from Andalucía, rich reds like Garnacha and Cariñena from the Mediterranean Coast, and up-and-coming varieties like Mencía and Monastrell that are just emerging on the marketplace. It's an unrivaled opportunity to savor the unique varieties of this premier wine-making nation, and bring something new to your repertoire, and wine list, in the process.
